The seeming epidemic of graft in government and financial circles is no reason for pessimistic conclusions as to the state of morals in our country. The discovery of so much dishonesty betokens a healthy condition of the public conscience. all our citizens have been blinded by the lust for sudden wealth. At the same time it is no wonder that there should be small exhibitions of the graft spirit when the colossal fortunes of so many of our multi millionaires have been built up out of the same thing, only on a larger

RECOGNITION OF NORWAY.

The Question Is Now Before the Presi dent of the United States.

Washington, July 26.-The question of the recognition of Norway as an independent state is now before President Roosevelt, having been referred to him by Assistant Secretary of State Adee. On numerous occasions it has happened that a revolutionary party asked to be recognized as an independent nation, but Norway has not seceded from Sweden through a revolution, but merely has taken back the sovereignty which once had been given to the king of Sweden. Many private Norwegian citizens have asked the United States to recognize the new state and C. Hauge, who until the secession was first secretary of the legation of Sweden and Norway, has presented a more or less formal request to the state department which, however, has no official authority. All the requests, however, have been referred to the president.

A Pleasant Evening in the Yards

NIARY of a man who has bought a berth in a sleeping car that is to be started on its journey at three o'clock in the morning, the passengers being permitted to enter at 10:30 and go to 10:45-Ah, this is delightful. There is nobody in the upper berth; the night is just cool enough for comfort, and I'll have over four hours of good, solid sleep before the car starts.

10:56-They have run a switch engine up beside this car, and it is blowing off steam with a roar that would make Niagara sound like the humming of a mosquito, I wonder why they don't save their coal!

11:01—They are now ringing the bell

11:16-We're moving. I can't under- asm. stand it. The agent said our car would stand in the yard till three o'clock.

Oof! Confound it, what are they trying to do with us, anyway? We must have run against a stone wall. 11:29-I wish I hadn't come in so early. What a beauty Grace Leamington is-and as clever as she's pretty. I might have been with her instead of wasting time in this stuffy car for the past hour, too! I'm a Rocky Mountain sheep if they haven't run that switch engine up beside us again. I wonder why they keep ringing the confounded bell! They certainly can't be afraid of running over people while the old machine is standing still at this time of night.

11:40-No use. I can't go to sleep here. They've run the switch engine away, but that fellow in the next berth is going to die in a minute or two. No man can use his breathing apparatus to make such sounds as he's making and live. I wonder if he has a wife and family! It'll be a sad task to break the news to them.

11:53-Oh, heavens, but this is lovely! The conductor and porter are now quarreling with somebody about his ticket. I was just going to sleep, too. I wish I had sat up and smoked.

12:07-At last things are quiet. The porter has turned down the lights. Now for a good, refreshing sleep. I need it. I wonder if Grace Leamington is likely to get stout in her old age?

12:21-Um-m-m! Heavens! We must have been run into by the fast mail that time. I hope nobody's killed. It's that confounded switch engine. It has come back and hooked onto us. I wonder where we're going now? Oh, well, I don't care much. Danger and death no longer seem terrible to me. Maybe they're going to shove us into the roundhouse. If they'd only keep the car moving I believe I could go to sleep easier than when it's standing still. I wouldn't be surprised if Grace might get rather heavy after she's 35 or 40. Her mother must weigh at least 170 pounds.

12:33-Bang, once more. I'll bet the man who's running that switch engine never had hold of a throttle before. But perhaps his brake is broken, so that the only way he can stop is by running against something. I'm so glad I got here as soon as the car was opened. It would have been a pity if I had missed any of the refreshing rest I'm getting.

12:40-I'm going to report this conductor. I don't believe the company pays him merely to stand in the aisles and gossip with the porter while passengers are trying to get the sleep they've given up their good cash for.

1:02-There it is again. The switch engine's got back. Oh, toot, dad burn

1:23-We're off again. This is the ninth time they've run us down the track and then run us back, with a nerve-destroying bump at each end. Oh, well, I guess there's no use trying to go to sleep now. I'm going to take it philosophically and save wear and tear on my temper.

1:37-For heaven's sake! They're yelling at somebody now to get up on the roof of this car and pour water into it. I wonder if they didn't have time to attend to that earlier in the evening, when people were not trying to sleep? I believe this road is run by lunatics.

1:50-I know that man in the next berth is now in the last throes. Confound him, he ought to die! Any man who can sleep through a racket like this deserves an ignominious death. Still, I don't suppose he's to blame, after all. He makes so much noise of his own that he doesn't know anything else is going on. That's the great advantage of being a snorer. I never thought of it before. Now I know why a man who snores is always able to sleep overtime.

2:02-Ouch! That bump nearly threw me into the aisle. I wonder why they always run into us from the direction toward which one's head points? I'll bet there are seven distinct imprints of my skull on the partition between on the switch engine. It sounds as if this and the next berth. Oh, if the it were about five and one-half inches coupling would only break and let us yard. 2:41-Thank heaven! Only 19 minutes to wait in this inferno. Jerusalem! They're going to shunt us around somewhere again. I wonder if it would do that poor fellow any good to pour some kind of a lubricant into his windpipe? It's too bad that Grace's hair is so dark. Otherwise the down on her upper lip wouldn't show at all.

2:53-The Pullman conductor has just yelled to the porter that the train to which we are to be attached is an hour and 50 minutes late. Good-by, proud world, godo-by! I'm going out to throw myself in front of the switch engiue. If an all-wise Providence felt that I had any right to live this could never have happened to me.-Chicago Record-Herald.

GERMANS FILLING COUNTRY

Settlers Find an Ideal Location in the State of Virginia for a Settlement.

Richmond, Va.-Lunenburg county, along the line of the Southern railway, is filling up with Germans from the north and west. The newcomers are buying farms and engaging in cattle raising, poultrying, fruit growing, grape culture and similar pursuits. More than 40 families have moved in during the past year, and they appear to be happy and contented. They are all making money, living economically, and seem delighted with the conditions

Three years ago a German came to Virginia from Minnesota. He bought a farm in Lunenburg county and began to sow grass and raise cattle for market. He paid $3,000 for the farm, and less than a month ago he was offered $12,000 for the farm, declining to sell at any price. He has made cattle raising pay, and pay handsomely.

A colony moved in last month, buying a farm of several hundred acres, which was divided up among the colony, each man getting about 100 acres. They do not spread over an immense acreage, but do attend to small fields, getting the best results, and with less labor than the farmers of this section.

They have begun to demonstrate to the farmers of the state that they know a thing or two, and the example of small fields, well cultivated, is being followed by many of the Virginians.

integrates, But Preserves Calorific Power.

An electric process for the treatment of peat has lately been adopted in England. The peat is transformed into a hard combustible which is well adapted for use under boilers. The operation is said to last two and a half hours and the material costs less than ordinary coal. The combustible which is thus produced has a high calorific value and gives scarcely any smoke, reports the Scientific American

A plant on a large scale is shortly to be installed in Ireland, and if successful it will be an important move in the direction of utilizing peat as fuel under the best conditions. In the present process the peat as it comes from the bogs is placed in cylinders which revolve at a high speed, while a set of air fans is used to drive off the water, which forms about 80 per cent. of the total.

A set of electrodes is placed in the cylinders and connected with a dynamo. The circuit is completed through the mass of the peat between the electrodes. The resistance which the peat offers to the current causes a considerable heat and the latter breaks up the peat and pulverizes it, but without causing it to lose any of its properties.

In order to increase the conductivity of some kinds of peat they add certain chemical products. After this process the peat is treated by a set of kneading rollers which gives it a plastic consistency so as to enable it to take any desired form. From here it passes to an automatic press which forms it into briquettes. It is then ready for use and is taken to the storeroom.

It is to be remarked that although the passage of the current through the peat gives rise to a heating effect, the results obtained in this way are quite different from those which another method of heating would produce. By fire heat the particles of the peat lose their different constituent matters, while the electric heating causes them to disintegrate, thus freeing their cellular material and distributing it throughout the entire mass of the peat. Thus all the particles become adapted for combustion.

To obtain a harder material the disaggregated peat is given a larger treatment with the current. The air is kept out by a tight cover, and the mass is then treated with an adhesive solution so as to unite the particles. The experiments have been made with the process on a large scale and at a great expense, and it is said to have been greatly improved in the details and can now be applied commercially.

MANASSEH'S SIN and REPENTANCE

Sunday School Lesson for July 30, 1905 Specially Prepared for This Paper.

LESSON TEXT .-- 2 Chron. 33:1-13. Memory verses 10-13. Read all the chapter.
GOLDEN TEXT.—"Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."-Prov. 14:34.

TIME.—Manasseh became king B. C. 696. Amon came to the throne B. C. 641 and reigned two years. PLACE .- Judah and Babylon.

SCRIPTURE REFERENCES.—Manas-seh's mother: 2 Kings 21:1; Isa, 62:4. Man-asseh's early environment: Isa, 22:15-19; 29:14-16; 30:1, 9-14. Read 2 Chron, 33:3-8 and compare it with Deut, 18:9-14. References to idolatry in 2 Kings 23; 1 Sam. 28; Ezek. 8; Zeph. 1 and 3; Jer. 5, 7, and 19. Compare them with the picture in 2 Chron. 33. God's promises regarding the Temple: 2 Sam. 7:10-13; 25-29; 1 Kings 8:29; 9:3-9; Psa. 132; 13, 14. Compare Manasseh's conversion with Paul's: Acts 9:1-30; 22:1-21; 26:4-23. Comment and Suggestive Thought.

V. 1. 'Twelve years, . . . began to reign:" In Judah a young man was not of age until he reached 18 years; during the young king's minority regents held the reins of power. "Fifty-five years:" His was the longest reign in Judah. The facts of his continued life and large measure ot prosperity were very perplexing to the good people of his day, who knew only of rewards and punishments which can be received in this life. We can rejoice that a patient heavenly Father allowed him time that he might repent, V. 2. "That which was evil:" A set phrase, meaning that this king did not properly support Jehovah-worship. It is also undoubtedly true that, in personal and national life, he was guilty of gross wickedness. "Abomination: A strong word, but not too strong for the debasing and licentious orgies with which heathen worship was conducted. "Heathen, cast out:" The Canaanites, whom Jehovah bad driven from the land in establishing His own people there.

The most popular places of worship were the shrines set up in every village, commonly in an elevated position. Idolatrous rites soon came to be practiced there. "Baalim:" The plural for Baal, the name of various deities of the Canaanites. "Groves:" Revised Version, "Asheroth:" Wooden posts or images connected with the worship of the Phoenician female deity. "All the host of heaven:" the sun, moon and stars. This was a new form of idolatrous worship. It had been introduced first by King Ahaz. He probably brought it from Nineveh or Babylon.

"So that they will take heed:" Israelites must be obedient to God's commandments in order to maintain the position He had assigned them. V. 9. "Made, err:" Led and encouraged them in the idolatrous practices above mentioned. than the heathen:" It was far worse for Israelites to do these things than for the heathen nations of whom they learned them, for the Israelites sinned against light and knowledge.

V. 10. "The Lord spake:" spoke by the voice of conscience, and also sent prophets to warn them and denounce their wicked ways. The substance of these warnings is stated in 2 Kings 21:10-15. It is thought that most of the prophecies of Micah were messages to Manasseh. "They would not hearken:" They would not heed the messages, but slew them.

V. 11. "The Lord brought upon them:" God permitted His people to suffer this result of their sin. "King of Assyria:" Probably Esarhaddon. See Persons. "Among the thorns:" Better, "In chains."

V. 12. "In affliction . he besought the Lord:" The bitterness of the fruit of sin made Manosseh sick of it. V. 13. "Prayed unto Him:" The Apocryphal book, "The Prayer of Manasseh," is a model confession of sin, expression of penitence, and appreciation of the forgiving character of God.

It wants green for restfulness, air for coolness and shade for the eyes from the glare of the sun. Therefore the wise housekeeper will have seen to it that many vines are planted early. With a fine Boston fern drooping over the edges, or a palm, or, in fact, anything green, they are very restful and pleasing to see. They are not burt by wetting.

Small tables for work, strong chairs with a rug on the floor, a footstool or so and a few washable cushions will make a delightful retreat.

Many persons have wicker chairs, others bamboo or rustic ones, but those in demand just now are the dark green old fashioned furniture, with cushions of chintz to match or harmonize with the rest. It is a mistaken idea that no fruit should be eaten at breakfast. Indeed, it would be far better if people would eat less bacon at breakfast and more fruit. The apple is one of the best fruits. The Work of the Leaves

In an experiment described in this column a few weeks ago, it was found that every leaf gives off water many barrels are given off each year. If you will think of the number of trees on an acre of land, you will see that the amount of water which a small tract of timber gives off is something very great.

There are two questions of great interest and value that should be asked of children who have been led tion, as there is no color to detract to think of and observe the work of the leaf thus far. One of these is, Of what use is this power of giving the sacredness of those stones. Rural of the death watch set over a off water to the plant? and the other is, Of what use is this power to men?

To get at the first one of these questions, ask the children if rain water tastes like spring water, and that can endure an occasional rain bath if all spring water tastes alike. They will know by experience that rain water tastes different, and that some spring water is "hard," some sulphur, etc. Tell them that as the water makes its way through the ground it picks up little parts of the soil so small that they cannot be seen which stay with it until it is changed into vapor.

Their fathers put manure and fertilizer in the land to make crops grow. This is dissolved just as sugar is dissolved when one puts it into coffee, and when the roots suck up the water they get the manure or fertilizer, too. This runs up the roots and stem and out into the leaves. Some of it stops and is made into wood as it goes up, and part goes to the leaves, but there it can go no further, for the water flies away as vapor, and it cannot go along. Thus many gallons of water are taken up by the roots of a tree each day, and the food that is in it strained out just as one would strain the sticks and dirt out of a bucket of water by pouring it through a flour sack.

which the leaves are of use to a tree. Ing the case at its beginning a long They will learn some day that they Illness and possible death may be have another way of being very useful, too. Now let us see if all this work that the leaf does is selfish.

But now where does the water come from which the trees in the woods give off? If you were to follow the tap root of a large hickory made to sit upon them. A chill is taken or oak tree you would find that it runs down five, ten, even fifteen feet by sitting on the stone, which always shares. down there, where there is always a is to have a flannel shirt or wide band plentiful supply, it draws the water next the skin, with a flap in front nature's pump which makes its reaching well down over the thighs. own well and does its own pumping.

In this way, one acre of beech timber will give off to the air 47,620 called prickly heat, which is a torture the summer. This falls back as rain sponged with tepid water in which and nourishing. Raw apples are better than liver pills. Oranges are very ground and allows all of the small dissolved. Both are alkalis and act acceptable to most people, but the or- crops, like corn whose roots only go ange juice alone should be taken and down a few inches into the soil, to grow and make food for us.

By questioning lead them Stone jars with tight covers are the to see that it is because the water gets deep down in the ground and there is no way to get it out.

Apply this also to the reclaiming of desert regions by planting trees. In some parts of Nebraska and Kansas the climate has been almost wholly changed in a generation by

If you want to add interest and give some arithmetic, have the boys find how much water they can pump or draw from the well in a minute with the white meat from the shell, and then calculate how many boys working ten hours per day it would fuls of cooked rice. SUMMER CARE OF BABIES.

How to Keep Them Well and Ailevi-

Half the sufferings of little children and most of the deaths in summer could be avoided if mothers only knew how to do it, but the majority of mothers are young and inexperienced and thus allow the conditions to exist which cut down their little blossome, and then they cry out against the Providence who has bereaved them.

In the first place, the diet of little children has a great part in their health, and if the mother has small exshould be fed carefully under the orders of a competent physician, and above all no soothing sirup or sleeping powders should be given.

Strict cleanliness, proper clothing and diet belong to the mother's province. Beyond that, if the child is ailing, accept no neighbor's remedies, but have the family doctor and follow his directions implicitly. And have the doctor This, they will see, is one way in blue rings around its eyes, for by takavoided.

One doctor said that more dangerous summer complaints came from allowing little ones to sit on stone doorsteps without anything under them than anything else and advised that all children be provided with pieces of carpet and bor. amongst the clay and rock. From has a certain coldness. The next thing

When during the summer the child is fretful and writhes about it should be allke in allaying the suffering. A handful of washing soda to a gallon of water or a tablespoonful of baking soda is right. Then tap, not rub, the body with a soft linen, after which dust the whole surface with borated talcum powder.

It is a wonder how little children are cut down. They bring the water survive the summer, errors of diet, too ten left for hours in them, and above all the deadly if slow poisons called soothing strups and teething powders.

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it-are wrong. Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill. This will soothe your quivering nerves. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and simflar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands. They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Protection for Fruit.

There is a satisfaction in raising nice fruit that can hardly be realized them for school use as Miss Mary in the production of any other crop. Much of that satisfaction is often toward securing needed repairs and discounted by the fact that a man may not gather what he raises with: the school"-and house and grounds out a vigilance that often costs more than the fruit is worth.

If a man must keep a fence too high and too strongly barbed to climb, too heavy to be cut with pinchers, and too deep to be dug under, around his orchard, vineyard, young man is going to teach but a or strawberry patch, or, in default of that, must watch his property with a vigilance only less than is required condemned criminal, he is apt to life career, now, but if every teacher feel that the Commonwealth is who enters the ranks will take this hardly doing its duty in protecting his property. Laws are severe enough in most States, for this fruit pilfering is not confined to Kentucky by any means, but the enforcement of any law depends upon public opinion. Public opinion needs a smart awakening in the south end of Madison County just about the present date, July, 1905. It has needed it since May of this same as the summer of 1904, a citizen of Berea was compelled to gather peaches about as large as base-balls, because the boys on his street selling goods. would not let them ripen, and in the same year, and in this same highly moral village, a man's musk melons were destroyed over night, what could not be eaten or carried off being cut up or trampled in the

We certainly need to wake up to the nuisance and adopt severe measures. It is well enough to say it is "only boys," but if that were as soon as the child looks pale, with true it is a bad way to let boys

But it is more than boys. Fruit goes out that is not carried in pockets or eaten out of hand. Fruit is cooked and eaten on the table in houses where the people neither raised it nor paid for it nor received it as a gift from some kindly neigh-Fruit is brought to town and by people who neither have

The "boys" have a lot of help directly or indirectly, and by the way "boys" must be a cute lot at times, for the tracks under raided trees and in depleted strawberry beds undressed, and if it has the fine rash often show marks of shoes with smaller, deeper heels and narrower gallons of water each month during to the little ones, the body should be soles than are usually sold to the boy trade. Last fall there was a woman pretty well known for the amount of fruit as well as poultry and other commodities she has to market, who used to offer apples with the remark that "they came off that old tree back of the house," but such a remarkable tree as that was! It certainly must have been top grafted about twenty times, for red apples and yellow apples, green, streaked and splashed, sweet, sour, early, and keepers were all ascribed to this marvellous tree. Now the way to stop this pilfering is to stop it. The people of our community are not all thieves, nor any high per cent. of them, but let it be plain talk that a person who gets fruit from trees or vines not his own is a thief, as truly as if he got goods off the counter or money out of the till. Even the wild berries in these times should be asked for.

Then when people are caught, let prompt arrest and trial follow.

If parents will carefully instruct their children as to the sacredness of other people's property, even their plums and apples, and if respectable people will stand together in their determination to suppress the evil; much can certainly be accomplished.

A very significant thing is the languages which the children of Japan are obliged to learn in the public schools. School attendance has just been made compulsory from 6 to 14 years of age. The first four years they are taught the Japanese and Chinese languages, and the last four years English is added. This shows with what peoples Japan expects to find the closest alliances and the greatest prosperity.

Because the irrigation projects of the government are not visible at our very doors, do not forget that they are gradually transforming Western deserts into fertile fields. They are laying the foundations for contentment and fortune for thrifty Americans, and for the increase of the producing capacity of American farms. Homes are rapidly springing up where heretofore have been waste places, and golden grain is being harvested where never grew grain before.

The system of collecting fares in the City of Mexico differs radically from that employed in this country, as a slip is handed by the conductor to each passenger as a fare receipt. This receipt shows the date, amount of fare and direction of trip, bears a serial number, and must be retained by the passenger until the end of his ride as proof that he has paid his fare. The company has 17 different rates of fare, varying from 3 cents to 30 cents (Mex-Ican), and being divided between first and second class.

Some of the European monarchs give very large tips whenever they travel, and others, on the contrary, are quite niggardly. Emperor Nicholas of Russia is the most liberal in this respect. During his brief visit to France three years ago he spent $16,000 on tips to servants and almost as much on presents to officials and others. King Edward of England is not quite so generous, but as he travels a good deal, both within his own realm and abroad, he is obliged to lay aside each year $32,000 as an allowance for tips.

It is a curious fact that Mr. Gully, former speaker of the British house of commons, at one time was very despondent as to his future, and that the despondency was shared by two of his comrades in the legal profession. There is a story of those three discussing seriously whether they had not better throw up England altogether and seek fortune in India or one of the colonies. Luckily they decided to give fortune another chance, with very notable results. Mr. Gully ended as speaker of the house of commons.

The average charge per ton per mile on the railways of the United States has dropped from 1.990 cents in 1870 to 0.770 cents in 1904. That is, the rate has shrunk from about 2 cents a third of a century ago to a little less than 8 mills to-day. On the other hand, the average rate per ton per mile on the British railways is 1.85 cents now; Germany's is 2.1 cents, or higher than that of the United States in 1870, while the rates in Italy, Austria, and some of the other European countries are higher than those of

COL. DANIEL S. LAMONT.

Secretary of War During President Cleveland's Administration Died.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 24.-Col. Daniel Scott Lamont, secretary of war during the administration of President Cleveland's second administration, died suddenly at his home at Millbrock, Duchess county. Heart failure was the cause of death. Col. and Mrs. Lamont were out driving in the afternoon and Co!. Lamont appeared to be enjoying the best of health. After dinner he complained of feeling ill and Dr. Stewart, of New York, who is a guest at the house, immediately went to his aid. The physician diagnosed the case as an attack of heart failure and in spite of heroic treatment Mr. Lamont passed away within half an hour. At his deathbed were Mrs. Lament and two daughters, Frances and Bessie. Several gueste at the Lamont home were also present when the end came.

Daniel Scott Lamont was born at Cortlandville, N. Y., February 9, 1851. He began life in journalism and from 1885 to 1889 was private secretary to President Cleveland, by whom he was appointed secretary of war March 6, 1893. Mr. Lamont was vice president of the Northern Pacific railway and a director and trustee in many railroads and financial corporations. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

JONES EXPEDITION ENDED.

Body of the Revolutionary Hero Landed at Annapolis, Md.

Annapolis, Md., July 24.-The John Paul Jones expedition, commanded by Rr. Adm. Sigsbee, completed its mission with the landing of the body of the distinguished dead. The eight ships of the squadron, four cruisers and four battleships, rested all day Sunday in the anchorage off the naval academy, lying in double column. The day was without ceremony with the exception of the exchange of calls between Adm. Sands, superintendent of the naval academy, and Adms. Sigsbee and Davis and Capt, Cervais, of the French cruiser Jurien De la Graviere. On the "half deck" of the Brooklyn, in a spacious compartment at the entrance to the cabin of Adm. Sigsbee, laid the remains of John Paul Jones. They are contained in a casket of lead, enclosed in another of wood of handsome design, and draped with colors. Constant guard was kept by an armed jackie. Adm. Sigsbee regards his mission as eminently successful and satisfactory. His squadron has steamed nearly 7,000 miles without delay on account of accident or mishap to machinery.

The Trusts and the Nation's Soul

By NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS.

Is it possible for the nation to lose its sour? A nation has intellect, affections, conscience and will. The intellect is nourished by the public schools, the neath the "excess baggage" and incipress and books. The affections are cared for by the home and all the relations of father and mother and child. The moral sentiments and conscience preparation for the proposed jaunt is are kept in ethics by moral teachers. But what about the soul of the nation? The biologist tells us that the human body is made up of millions of cells; the nation is composed of millions of individual are the short vacations by trolley. No men. If the cells are interfered with through congested so that free movement is impossible death ensues. If liberty and freedom of movement is interfered with for the individual the soul of the nation dies. That rich man in Christ's day gained wheat and hay, and, having filled his barns, he stuffed his house until there was no room for himself and he had to sleep out of doors. That night he took a heavy cold and died of pneumonia. He gained much wheat, but lost his life. It seems that it is possible for the nation also to increase goods and destroy men. Meanwhile, the rearing of men is the first duty of the state. The first business of the state is the manufacture of a good quality of manhood.

Our nation has made wondrous progress during the last generation. What developments of fields and mines and flocks and factories! And what is the secret of this wonderful outburst of wealth and industry? The answer is not far to seek nor hard to find. It is the opportunity of private property. The man in the field tore up the soil and Nor need he struggle with a heavy, covered it with harvests and cattle, not dreaming that a time would come when he would discover that what he produced would be wrested away from him by unequal rates. The husbandman developed his telry may always be found at "the end pears, his apples and his oranges in the hope of wealth. The miner worked by day and night, expecting to save and build his cottage at nightfall. In the west, and especialnear the mouth of the mine, as did the woodsman on the edge of the ly in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, troiforest. All the paths that opened to investment were open. The man put his intellect into the tool and said: "It is mine." The vintner put his intellect into the vine and developed a new fruit, saying: "The reward will be mine." But suddenly men are waking as from a dream. The great trusts and corporations have cut all the roots of private enterprise. One judge calls attention to the fact that for five years the miner, the field hand, the farmer, the factoryman, have had to put their money into the savings bank, as opportunity for small investment has gone. When you close the paths that lead to private property you have injured ambition, destroyed hope and self-reliance. In gaining a diseased prosperity for a few you have wrought deterioration for the Michigan are pushing their roads in many. When you close the arteries through which the sap flows in the tree you get a great bunch on the oak that is a monstrous disfigurement -a kind of oak goitre-that answers to the closing of the industrial arteries in industry with similar diseases that threaten the very life of the nation. The process through which this deterioration has gone is subtle and complex, but the result is at last apparent. Is it wise to destroy ly the thing. children that glass may be cheap? Is it good policy to injure women in sweatshops that clothing may be inexpensive? Is it just to destroy the industrial rights of men in field and factory? Surely, a man has a right to earn his own livelihood! But if so, that man is an enemy of his country who takes away the industrial liberty of his competitors. Today, in some pursuits, men are decaying. Therefore the question: What shall it profit the nation if it gain the whole world and lose its own since then, and the old, vexatious problem still remains unsolved. The question is many-sided. In a few sentences it is impossible to argue it in its entirety. It is a social question; it is a religious question. It is an impersonal problem; it is a personal problem. As a social question, the advantages of intermarriage are apparent. Social prejudices must melt and social barriers must disappear when the closer cradle or ark of papyrus and smeared relations of peoples who for generations have misunderstood each other bring the one to view with sympathetic eyes the customs and traditions

As an impersonal problem the arguments take another form. With the Jew the preservation of the race and loyalty to the religion demand of Kittery, Me., where the navy yards that Jews shall marry within the fold. All churches of the western world are recruited from the ranks of proselytes except the Jewish church. The Jew has no faith in the proselyte. The history of thousands of years shows that with startlingly few exceptions converts from of his duty, rang the school bell, when Judaism to Christianity have taken this step impelled by material advantages only. Converts to Judaism are and have ever been a negligible quantity; the church has never sought them. If, then, the Jews would survive, they must refrain from intermarriage. The defection of a few, even of a few thousands, will not affect the result, but should intermarriage become general, the ancient race and the ancient faith must in time

As a personal problem I can speak clearly. I disapprove all intermarriage between Jew and non-Jew. I would keep my race unmixed and my religion pure. That among all the nations of the Bible the Jewish alone has survived is proof that its mission as a people has not yet been fulfilled. Until all the world shall acknowledge the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, until the prophecy of Micah shall have been fulfilled, "Nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more"; until the day comes when "error shall be no more," when, as taught by Hillel almost a century before the coming of Jesus, we shall "Do not that to another that we would not ican dealers who have not yet receive have done unto us," God and the world still need the Jew. Truth and morality-aye! God himself-were given to the world by the Jew. Hate and persecution have driven many Jews from their moorings, and they have drifted far from the teachings of their faith. All the heavier, then, with violating the Sunday closing law. rests the obligation upon the pure-minded among us to remain loyal and true, socially the equal of all the world, but as a race and a religion, a people apart.

CHEAP SUMMER OUTINGS.

The Electric Lines Offer Many Attractions in the Way of Short Country Trips.

The words "summer outing" usually conjure up mental pictures of "ma and the children" sitting on the lid of an overfilled trunk, while "pa" fusses and fumes and swears at an obstinate key that won't turn in the lock, and a second canvas presents the mental image of a burly expressman groaning bedentally knocking the pictures are bric-a-brac off the wall and smashing the chandelier. Usually the period of a hideous drudge of overwork and as a rule the entire vacation is needed to nullify its evil effects. In direct contrast to this form of summer outing packing, no "baggage smashers," no boarding house prospectus-just a few necessaries thrown into a grip, a little money in pocket and there you are. Moreover, it's less expensive.

Three or four days or a week may be profitably and enjoyably spent in journeying by trolley from one town to another, stopping each night at a hotel and resuming the jaunt in the morning. But it is not necessary to make a week's tour to get pleasure out of trolleying, for one-day trips are quite as delightful. Especially are such outings advantageous to the city dweller who finds his business too confining to permit his taking a vacation of even a week's duration. Leaving the hot and dusty town in the early morning, he may go far afield and find much of interest between dawn and dark, exploring pastures new to him. clattering lunch basket that threatens to spill the preserves down his trouser leg at each step, for some wayside hosof the line," and he can return in time for dinner and the comforts of home ley lines radiate from all the large cities to towns, villages and resorts in every direction. Hence the traveler need never be at loss for new fields to

Many parts of the country offer facilities for trolley touring, but none so much so as does eastern New England, which is fairly netted with electric lines. The wires stretch from Boston to New York, and one may go clear to Chicago by trolley. In Ohio trolley connection between many parts of the state is complete, while Indiana and every direction at the rate of many miles a day. Pennsylvania is rapidly becoming a trolley state, and almost every portion of New Jersey is accessible by electric lines. For pleasure touring, for genuine, thorough and cheap recreation the trolley is certain-

MOSES WITH NO BULLRUSHES

He ascribes the presence of the word "bulrushes" in the Authorized Version as being due to faulty translation, for there are no such things as bulrushes erate in their attitude to offenders. Almost 3,000 years have passed on the Nile. The word in the original means payrus, and it seems that in the absence of some equivalent in English, the word was used as being the nearest which the translators had at their command.

According to Alma-Tadema's reading, the mother of Moses fashioned a it over with the White Nile mud; and it is according to this rendering that he has painted his picture.

Speed of a Prairie Chicken. That a prairie chicken flies with sufficient speed to propel itself through heavy plate glass was proved by a recent incident at the little town of Wolsey, Beadle county. Prof. Shepard. of the village school, in the discharge a couple of prairie chickens that had taken refuge in the schoolhouse tower from a storm were frightened from their place of refuge. They flew as straight and swift as an arrow for the plate glass front of a business house. The glass was five-eighths of an inch in thickness, but one of the prairie chickens went straight through it as though it were paper, and dropped dead on the floor inside the building at a distance of about 20 feet from the window. The prairie chicken went through the plate glass with sufficient force to cut a hole six inches in diameter in the heavy glass .-- Minneapolis

AN EXCELLENT REASON.

A Boy's Argument for the Closing of a Saloon Near His School.

Patrick A. Collins, mayor of Boston for a number of years past, believes that a boy's word is worth listening to. Recently complaint was made to him that a saloon was located too near a certain public school. The politicians and others interested in keeping the place open, urged him not to interfere with the resort. The school authorities desired it closed or removed.

After the mayor had listened to arguments from both sides, he said:

'Well, I'm going to let the boys of the school tell me what they think of the place. Send me," he said to the principal of the school, "half a dozen of your brightest boys. I'll listen to them."

The next day half a dozen of the boys, ranging from ten to 15 years of age, called on the mayor. Each boy gave some reason why he believed the saloon ought to be taken away, until it came to the last one, a youngster of 12. He looked the mayor squarely in the eye, and gave as his reason:

"My school gives me a chance to be mayor of Boston some day; ; the saloon can't. I think us boys ought to have all the show we can get to be mayor. That's all I know about it.

The mayor threw himself back in his chair and laughed heartily; then, straightening up, he said to the last spokesman:

'My boy, you have said more than did all the politicians and the teachers. You shall have the show to be mayor. That saloon will have to quit business at

The boys gave the mayor a hearty cheer and marched out of his office. They had conquered, and were consequently happy and triumphant,-Con-

NEW ELEMENT OF DANGER.

The Principle of Total Abstinence Ought to Apply in the Case of the Automobile.

It is not regarded as an interference with the freedom of the individual for railroad companies to insist that the men in their employment shall be total abstainers. This policy is becoming universal. It has the approval of the public because the arguments in its favor are perfectly obvious. The trust placed in engineers and motormen is of such a sort that it is imperative that the great cause of distrust, the most fruitful source of incompetency, should be removed. Those who by a single mistake may cause disaster must have their wits about them, and that this object may be attained, it is desirable that their conduct when off duty should be as circumspect as when they are on duty.

Why should not the same principle be applied to the case of the automobile? The horseless carriage, capable of great speed, has introduced a new element of danger in our cities. Fatal accidents are of daily occurrence. Recently the police of New York were looking for a red automobile which had killed a pedestrian, bumped into a street car and escaped without waiting to find out what damage had been done. There were indications that the "accident," if it may be called an accident, may have been largely the result of calls at places of refresh-

An automobilist of this city of wide experience stated recently that if the facts were known it would be found that the vast majority of accidents could be traced directly to drink. And this was so not only when the chauffeurs took out the cars of their masters on the sly, but even when the owners were present .-N. Y. Sun.

SUGGESTIVE STATEMENTS.

It is significant of a growing public sentiment against liquor drinking that the use of intoxicants by railway employes is being more and more strictly forbidden by the railway companies. One of the new rules promulgated by the New York Interborough company absolutely excludes from employment any man who drinks intoxicating liquors.

The Daily Mirror, of London, is responsible for the statement that "teetotalism is becoming a fashion" in some parts of London. Hotel proprietors and keepers of restaurants and public houses are all agreed on this point, but do not regret the change as the profits on aerated waters are as large as those on intoxicants. One hotel manager said perhaps Americans had set the fashion.

The temperance people of Massachusetts have shown what may be done by organization and unity of effort, Under the leadership of the Anti-Saloon league churches, young people's societies and individuals by the thousands petitioned the state legislature against the bill allowing saloons to be open after midnight. As a result, the bill was defeated by an overwhelming vote, and temperance scored another victory.-Ram's Horn.

Not a Defense.

Judge Bonney, of Portland, Me., in a case involving a charge of assault with intent to kill, recently decided that drunkenness could not be pleaded as a defense. This is a righteous decision. If drunkenness were an excuse for crime, then all that a person who wanted to kill his enemy would have to do would be to get on a drunk commit the murder, and nothing would be done about it.

No Such Thing Known Among the Successful Farmers - Win by Hard Work and Foresight.

When a farmer through close calculation and well directed effort has been able to force his land to yield a goodly profit, it may be all very well for him to pass his success off as merely a bit of "luck," but the man who takes such meat of the reason and cheats himself accordingly. For everything that

It is a wise man who can shake off the idea that "luck" rules the successes by Hon. W. P. Brownlow, of Tennessee of another, remarks the Prairie Farm-The sooner that the go-as-youplease farmer rids himself of the idea the better, and the sooner he will be in a position to analyze the success of his competitor and apply the other's strong points in his own work.

If a farmer always gets a high price for his fruit when the market is glutted, realizes a few cents on top of the average price for his butter, secures the top of the day for his cattle, cuts hay that goes three tons to the acre, harvests oats that yield 60 bushels or cuts corn that hovers around the 80bushel mark, it is not because he has had a little more "luck" than his neighbor, but that he has husbanded his facilities of production and brought forth the best in quality and quantity.

For success the closest calculation and the execution of well-laid plans are necessary. Fully demonstrated in the business world, they have been found no less practical in the operations of the farmer. In commercial life the successful business man has forgotten that there is such a term as 'luck" in

ROADS AND EDUCATION.

Consolidation of School Districts Dependent on the Character of the Highways.

One of the most important problems for our rural communities has been how best to secure the benefits of a graded school system so as to enable the farmer to give his children instruction in the higher branches of learning without leaving the farm. The writer believes that the policy of consolidation and transportation of pupils furnishes a solution of the problem if the policy can be perfected. The next and most important question is: how can this be done; in what way, and after what preparation, can a perfect system be established or made possible of establishment? We are firmly of the opinion an explanation seriously misses the that the system of education outlined and which means so much for the country will never be perfected and become happens there is always a reason. Pos- a fixed policy until there is national aid sibly it is sometimes obscure, but it in the construction of good wagon exists none the less. duced in the house of representatives and in senate by Mr. Latimer, of South Carolina. In hearings on the good-roads subject before the senate committee on agriculture it was shown that of all the roads in the United States there are only 5 per cent. good, 10 per cent. fairly passable and 85 per cent. bad; that is, stallers of teams in wet weather, and the creators of insufferable dust storms in dry weather. "Fifteen per cent. are roads, the remainder mere rights-of-

> While striving after the best results in its own particular field and studiously seeking improvements under functions that belong to it alone, that very important branch of the public service known as the bureau of education has, in its investigations, gathered practical facts and detailed statistics that furnish irrefutable argument in favor of national aid for good roads, because no government can prosper save by the enlightenment of its people. President Roosevelt, in a speech at St. Louis in 1903, declared that the difference between the semibarbarism of the middle ages and the civilization which succeeded it was the difference between poor and good means of communication. On Bedloe's Island in New York narbor stands Liberty Enlightening the World. "Go ye into all the earth and preach the Gospel to every creature," means now, as when first communicated to man, that the highways and byways furnish a fruitful field for Godly work. Following the construction of good roads civilization expands, education increases and Christianity widens and broadens its field of operation. But education is not possible and Christianity is retarded where schoolhouses cannot be reached, and where the highways are not at all seasons passable. No fixed policy of consolidated schools will prevail until there is a systematized construction of wagon roads, and no fixed policy of road construction is possible except by federal cooperation with the states and the political divisions thereof. The common or wagon roads are the primary means of transportation and communication. The railroads have their uses, and they are important, but people do not use them to reach church nouses and school houses. Christian civilization and education call for better means of propagation. Public school work goes hand in hand with the spread | nal. of religion. It needs no argument to show that every church interest and every school interest is closely connected with the question of public road imfrom the cistern. On one side a con- provement throughout the United venient arrangement for washing is States. We are a Christian nation, and shown, a tight box fitted to the wall with | we are an educational people. Gunboat Bennington.

Fifty-Nine Killed, 50 Injured and 16 Men Are Missing-Forty-Seven of the Dead Were Buried Near San Diego, Cal.

San Diego, Cal. July 22 -One of the boilers on the United States gunboat Bennington exploded in the harbor

The Bennington at the time of the ed orders from the navy department at Washington to sail for Port Harup and everything was in readiness for sailing when suddenly and without any warning whatever the starboard forward boiler exploded with a deafening The explosion was terrific.

At the time of the accident Commander Lucien Young and Surgeon F. Peck were on shore. The two officers, as soon as they learned of the disaster, hurried to the water front where Commander Young immediately took charge

On board the Bennington were presented terrible scenes. The force of the explosion had torn a great hole in the starboard side of the ship and the vessel was already commencing to list, A section of the upper deck was carried away from stem to stern. Blood and wreckage was distributed over the entire ship, the after cabin and the vicinity of the ship adjacent to the exploded boiler resembling a charnelhouse. Over it all hung the great cloud of white smoke, which drifted slowly toward the Coronado shore.

The shock of the explosion penetrated every section of the ship, blood and buildings there belonging to the Davis ashes being found as far as the stern of the captain's cabin. Portions of the upper deck were carried away and great damage was done in all sections. Most of the dead and injured were taken ashore, where the undertakers and physicians were assembled, the former taking charge of the dead and the latter to minister to the needs of > the living. The bodies of many of the men taken from the wrecked interior of the ship were mutilated almost beyond recognition. The faces of many were covered with blood and ashes.

The boiler which exploded, it is said. was regarded as unsafe. Commander Young stated that during a recent return trip from Honolulu the steam pressure was kept reduced in that particular one.

JAMES MARTIN.

Снісаво, Ілл., Ост., 2, 1902. I suffered with falling and con-I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I

OUR NEXT SERIAL

Is a stirring and delightful story of the North Country Mr. Bacheller loves so well. It is a tale of the days when the French emigres, fleeing from the Reign of Terror, built their chateaux and mansions in the northern counties of New York; the days when England tried issue again with the young republic, and when Darius Olin, quaint, rugged, wise and at all times truthful, with young Ramon Bell, two types of the men who helped to make America, rode into the Lake Champlain region to adventure, love and danger. It is a rare story of Yankee valor, Yankee humor, Yankee pluck.

Watch our columns for the opening chapters. They will appear in the near future. A A
